

AN APPLE FOR THE TEACHER

Details on Setting and Locations

An Apple for the Teacher's story is set in Oxford, England. While on holidays in Oxford, Father Jerome stumbles across a twenty-year old mystery. The sister of the straight-lace local teacher has been brutally murdered. Her remains are discovered in the woods at the back of Adele McClure's property. Gerald Antoine, the local butcher was in love with Louise Hardcore, the young woman who disappeared all those years ago. When her body is discovered, Gerald is suspected to have killed her with a meat cleaver. Father Jerome does not believe that to be the case. Following a thorough investigation, Detective Inspector Willis finally arrests the culprit – Lisa Hardcore the jealous sister.

Oxford, England, considered by many to be the Mecca of higher learning, seems to be the focal point of quite another type of endeavors: murder. The tranquil community of Northern Oxford was disturbed twenty years ago when a young lady disappeared unexpectedly. Time has not erased the memory of the event from the minds of those who lived in the area then.

List of Prominent Locations in the Story:

Northern Oxford, England

A large property and manor near Oxford.

Wooded area at the back of the manor.

Saturday market; butcher shop; street café or coffee house.