

THE EDITOR (2)
A Daphne Taylor Mystery
Details on Setting and Locations

The Editor's second story is set in Vancouver, Canada. Daphne Taylor is a dedicated literary editor. She lives in an apartment that overlooks the beach and ocean beyond. While paying no attention to what's happening across the street, Daphne hears a scream and her friend's dog howling from the 21st floor balcony. She rushes out to find Lillian Davros dead in the garden of her building. She has either committed suicide or has been pushed to her death. Detective Stanton is assigned to the case. Together with Daphne they discover that Lillian was a wealthy woman who owned a house on Bowen Island near Vancouver.

The criminal elements in Vancouver are not to be ignored. Daphne Taylor has been in contact with most of them through her work. She has interviewed murderer as well as abused mothers or renegade teens. She is no stranger to crime. This latest case brings crime to Daphne's doorstep however. Her friend has been killed for her inheritance. Daphne and Stanton will have to find the culprit as soon as possible. The editor is in danger of suffering the same fate.

List of Prominent Locations in the Story:

Vancouver – English Bay, beach and promenade leading to Stanley Park.

Apartment tower complex near beach and promenade.

Bowen Island – Howe Sound, Vancouver

Luxurious villa on Bowen Island.