Before her death, Sister Isabelle could not come to terms with the fact that the father of her child is now the priest officiating at the church near the convent. daughter.

Brief Summary

Father Simeon has been “relegated” to the post of parish priest in the small village of Ville d’Ecluse because of the reports of misconduct the Montreal bishopric received from time to time when the priest lived and taught school there. Father Simeon “loved the ladies” and was not afraid to show his affection somewhat openly. He particularly loved Sister Agnes, the young novice who was about to be ordained as a Sister of St. Marie. He did not know he was her father when he raped her. In fact, his death did not come as a surprise to many; it came as a relief for the sisters who suffered his salacious advances since his arrival at the parish.
